

PRESIDENT DINNER

« We are in Quebec on Lent's eve of 1837. The French have lost their lands to the English army since 1763. Yet, Quebec remains a predominantly French-speaking and strongly Catholic colony. The clergy reign with an iron fist on the people and is present in every home. The work of the colonizers is hard, the habits of lives austere, the climate is difficult and the neighbors are far away from another. Therefore, the moments of pleasure and celebration are rare.... »

Dear fellow anasplastologists,

This year, Quebec's anaplastology team is proud to invite you to the president dinner on the 4th of May. Our goal is to make you live a gastronomic experience tainted with history, folklore and frivolities. From the venue to the animated evening, you will experience the true Quebec hospitality.

We assure you a lot of surprises and everything has been thought to create a memory that you will keep for a long time.

Dress code: wood casual, check shirt, bring a track of 19th century!

Be quick, the number of entries is limited and they are going to be booked rapidly.

We hope to have raised your curiosity and we are looking forward seeing you there!

Louise, Annie and Gaston
